APA Style Guidelines for listing authors

All authors' names are inverted (the last name comes first), and initials only are used for all first and middle names. List up to seven authors by last names followed by initials.

If there is an organization as author, list org. as author; if the publisher is not the same as the author, give the publisher's name as you would for any other source.

If there is an unknown author, begin the entry with the work's title.

Articles (7.01)

When you cite an article found in print or online through the library databases (for example, PsycARTICLES or Expanded Academic ASAP) include the following publication information:

- The name of the author(s)
- Date of publication
- Title of the article
- Title of the journal
- The volume (and issue number, if not continuously paginated)
- The pages of the article

After this information, give the DOI (digital object identifier). If no DOI is available and the article was retrieved through a library database, no further information is needed. If no DOI is available and the reference was retrieved online, give the URL of the journal homepage.

Herbst-Damm, K. L. & Kulik, J. A. (2005). Volunteer support, marital status, and the survival times of terminally ill patients. Health Psychology, 24, Cohn, A. W. (2013). Juvenile Focus. Federal Probation, 77(3), 34-52.

Work in an anthology (7.02.25)
(For example, "Contemporary Issues" books)
List the author of the chapter, the year of publication, and the title of the article or chapter. Next, type "In" and give the name of the editor followed by (Ed.). Follow this with the title of the book and the page numbers of the article or chapter in parentheses. End your citation with the publication information for the book.

Deneen, S. (2006). Genetically engineered crops pose many risks. In S.A.

Kallen (Ed.), Is factory farming harming America? (pp. 91-100).

Farmington Hills: Greenhaven Press.

Basic format for a book (7.02.18)
The title page and the back of the title page will generally have much of the publication information that you need. Give the author's name, then the date and the title of the book. End with the place of publication and the name of the publisher. When a DOI is assigned, include it at the end.
