JOURNAL ARTICLE FROM A DATABASE
For an article accessed through a database service such as EBSCOhost include a URL. If the article is paginated, give a page number in the bibliography.

SHORT DOCUMENT FROM A WEB SITE
Include as many of the following elements as are available: author's name, title of the short work, title of the site, sponsor of the site, and the URL. When no author is named, treat the site's sponsor as the author.

NOTE: The Chicago Manual of Style does not advise including the date you accessed a Web source, but you may provide an access date after the URL if the cited material is time-sensitive: for example, http://www.historychannel.com/today (accessed May 1, 2005).

WITH AUTHOR:

AUTHOR UNKNOWN:

SOURCE QUOTED IN ANOTHER SOURCE

BASIC FORMAT FOR A PRINT BOOK
The elements needed for a book citation are author, title, publisher location, publisher, and date.

SINGLE AUTHOR:

TWO OR MORE AUTHORS:

UNKNOWN AUTHOR:

ARTICLE FROM A MAGAZINE
For a print article, provide a page range in the bibliography but for un-paginated articles, leave off the page range. To cite an article published online, refer to the entry titled SHORT DOCUMENT FROM A WEB SITE.

ARTICLE FROM A JOURNAL
For an article in a print journal, include the volume and issue numbers and the date; end the bibliography entry with the page range of the article. To cite an article published online, refer to the entry titled SHORT DOCUMENT FROM A WEB SITE.
